Invitation to BEAMS membership

Dear Colleague,

BEAMS (BEhavioural modelling of Analogue, Mixed-signal and multi-discipline Systems) is a non-lucrative association whose main objective is to promote behavioural modelling and related activities like simulation, synthesis, optimisation, etc. for the design of mixed-signal and multi-discipline circuits and systems. BEAMS members are belonging to universities, research institutions and industrial companies in Europe who agree to share their expertises and experiences to improve the awareness of the system on chip (SOC) design community in the benefits of the development and the use of behavioural models. BEAMS is open to any relevant design languages as far as its members are concerned (e.g. VHDL(-AMS), Verilog(-AMS), Modelica, SystemC(-AMS), etc.).

I have been elected as the 2003-2004 BEAMS chairman to continue what Jean-Jacques Charlot from ENST successfully built as the first chairman since the BEAMS creation in 2000. The BEAMS Board decided to improve the services offered to the BEAMS community and you should be able to monitor the changes throughout this year in the web site. One of our main effort will be devoted to the development of the BEAMS Open Library (BOL) to provide members with a comprehensive set of behavioural models.

I would therefore like to invite you either to renew your annual fee for 2003 or to apply for BEAMS membership. A membership form is enclosed to this mail.

Should you need any further information please contact us through the e-mail (beams@ixl.u-bordeaux.fr) or visit our web pages at <http://www.beams.asso.fr>. I'm looking forward having a long and fruitful collaboration with you.

Sincerely,

Alain Vachoux
BEAMS chairman
